

Dear Aviation Professional,

The wake of airline cutbacks has left thousands of industry employees unemployed. When a qualifying dislocation occurs and an employee loses his or her job, they immediately become eligible for Avjobs Cares re-employment services. The relief package covers all airline and airport workers, as well as employees who work for airline suppliers such as service employees and plane manufacturers.

Avjobs, Inc., the leader in aviation employment since 1988, has innovative services in place to assist displaced airline, airport, aerospace and aviation industry workers. The services are specially designed to give displaced airline workers the tools they need to get back to work.

As part of the preparation, Avjobs, Inc. has been working closely with large and small aviation related companies and is prepared for a new wave of displaced airline employees. Avjobs is in this unique position through its affiliation with over 7000 aviation related companies.

"Airline workers were among the victims of the terrorist attacks and today's inflated fuel prices," said Avjobs Executive President of Sales Tahna Stanley. "We believe this industry can be rebuilt, but it will take a large-scale commitment in employment assistance for those employees in need. These laid off airline workers receive immediate assistance to see them through this trying time.
